Reserving items

These procedures apply when placing reservations on behalf of users or managing individual collection items. Tasks covered are:

- Circulation tab / Reserve icon / Reserve an item or work – p. 1-2
- Title reservations – Reserve Work (trap first incoming item) – p. 3-5
- Item specific reservations – Reserve Item – pp 6-8
- Reserve types – examples (Title vs Item specific) – pp 9-10
- Accessing reservation lists – p.11
- Deleting reservations – p. 12

Tip: your users will manage their own reserves via the online catalogue. Encourage them to do so at every opportunity. Reserves placed through the online catalogue will always be Title Reservations. Please note the difference between Title Reservations (Reserving a Work) and placing an Item level Reserve.

- Reserving a work means the first available copy of the title will satisfy the reserve. Using this option will mean your users will receive the item they want sooner.
- Reserving a specific item means that particular item needs to be returned before your user will receive the item. Use this when you want to reserve a specific copy for a user (such as a particular magazine issue) or as part of ongoing collection management (i.e. checking for damage).

Circulation / Reserve / Reserve an item or work

1. When you have an item in hand, the fastest way to reserve the item is to go directly to the Reserve screen (Circulation tab / Reserve icon).

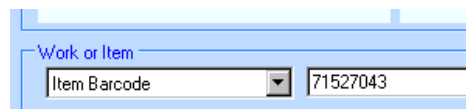

2. Scan the User barcode – if this is unknown locate through the Quick Find option

When you place a title reservation  (Small green dot) you place a reservation on all the items that belong to that title. So you reserve 5 works that belong to that title. I.e. all these items have been reserved below.

72834186
72834502
72834510
72834281
72718460
72834230

This is important for a number of reasons

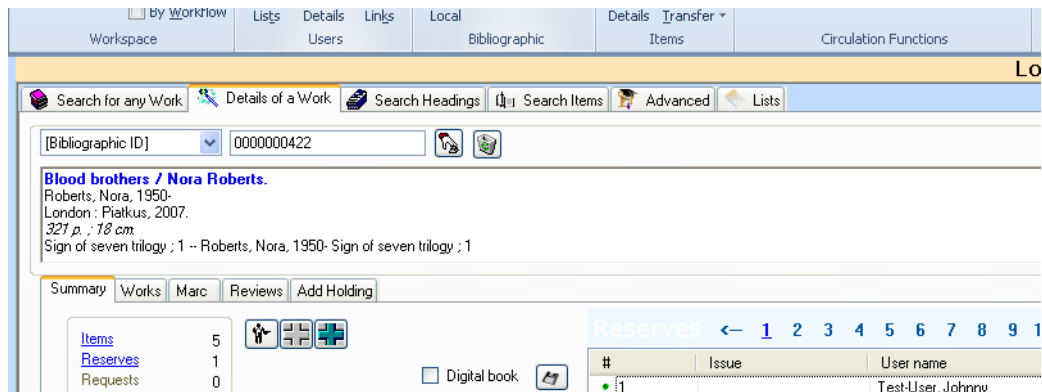

1. When the daily reservation report is run the 5 libraries that hold copies of this title will run the report and check the shelf for that title. Once the first item is trapped the reservation is then removed from the other 4 titles of that work. The library that has first trapped the item will send the book away to the requesting patron

2. When you place an item specific reserve  (big green dot) it will only place a reserve on one of the items that belong to that title. So if a library cannot locate or find that single copy you reserved then you miss out on receiving any of the other 4 copies. The patron will miss out on a copy of the book when there are extra copies on the shelves in other libraries.

72834502
72834510
72834281
72718460
72834230

- The title level reservation is fairer as you select books from the entire RLQ network. It also means that books are reserved and moved around more equitably and the customer will receive their reserve quicker.

To check reservations for a title, go to Search - Details of a work – Reserves and see the queue for the items and the green dot/s. A title reservation has a small green dot.

An item specific reservation has a big green dot.

There may be instances where you find that using an item specific reservation is more appropriate or more advantageous to your patron/s. For example: a specific magazine issue may be needed, a specific damaged book or a specific book for a patron. But if you want to increase the chances of success when reserving materials; as well as avoiding customer complaints and disappointment use the title reservation.
